Burglars Enter San Pablo Home, Administer Anaesthetic and Ransack Residence of Money, Gems, Clothing

Rings Stripped from Fingers of Helpless Victims, Who Do Not Recover from the Effects of Narcotic for Hours

RICHMOND, July 19.—Going quietly from room to room, chloroforming the sleeping inmates, stripping rings from their fingers and looting the place, burglars drugged five persons, ransacked the home of E. O. Carroll, Fourth and Bush streets, San Pablo, and made their escape in one of the most sensational burglaries in police annals. The police of Richmond, San Pablo and Oakland are today investigating clues.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll, Miss Lella Leggett, Carroll's stepdaughter; Elmer Leggett, a guest; and Mrs. Crooks, are today recovering from the effects of the chloroform administered in each room before the burglars proceeded to strip the place. FIVE PERSONS DRUGGED AND METHODICALLY ROBBED.

How the thieves managed to successfully chloroform five persons without arousing the others is, the police say, the most remarkable part of the affair. The burglars entered the home through the room of the stepdaughter. After rendering her unconscious with the drug they stripped several rings from her fingers, sorted out her silk dresses and proceeded to the next room, where Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were sleeping. Here again the chloroform was used, jewelry taken from the sleeping couple, cash, removed from Carroll's clothing and other valuables taken. The two boys, in the next room, were then chloroformed and jewelry and several silk shirts taken.

MORE VALUABLE LOOT CAREFULLY SELECTED. On the rear porch of the home the burglars carefully sorted over their loot, keeping only the best silk and the most valuable jewelry. The unconscious family did not recover from the effects of the drug until yesterday, when the police were notified.

Among the loot taken by the thieves was a gold spring bracelet, initialed N. I. L., set in a heart, from Mrs. Carroll's hand; Carroll's watch, a gold ring set with garnets and pearls, stripped from the hand of Miss Leggett, and other jewelry. The thieves are believed to have made their escape in an automobile, as they carried considerable bulky loot from the place which would have been noticed if carried on foot.

TREATY RATIFIED WITHOUT CHANGE SAYS HITCHCOCK

By L. C. MARTIN. United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Wilson's position on reservations to the peace treaty today was the subject of a warm dispute among Senators.

Those who want reservations declared that the President had indicated to recent callers that he might be willing to accept explanatory or interpretative reservations. Administration Senators replied that he is unalterably against reservations of any sort.

But it was considered significant that following a conference with the President last night at the capitol, Sen. Hitchcock, administration spokesman, said:

"The whole question now is the form and the wording of the resolution of ratification. There is no longer any danger of amendment in the treaty. It will be ratified without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of a 'c' so far as the text is concerned."

Hitchcock said he and the President discussed the interpretative and explanatory reservations among other things. But he insisted the President is standing pat against all reservations. His reference to the wording of the resolution of ratification was taken in some quarters, however, to indicate there might be some concession to those demanding reservations in the form of a mild explanatory clause in the resolution.

CURRENCY HEAD IS ACCUSED OF PROFIT IN DEAL

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Charges that John Skelton Williams, controller of the currency, aided his brother-in-law, Louis E. Williams, of Richmond, Va., in negotiating for the purchase by the government of property in Washington valued at $4,200,000 and received part of the commission for the sale, were made before the House rules committee today by Representative McFadden, Republican, Pennsylvania. McFadden asked that the committee report on his resolution providing for appointment of a special House committee to investigate the official conduct of the controller, and announced that if the investigation is being destroyed. At the right time I will bring forward witnesses whose character will prove the soundness of information they give.

The committee postponed final action until Monday. Controller Williams in a statement today said the charges made by McFadden were "utterly without foundation" and a "falsehood from start to finish."

He declared he had no interest in the sale of the Arlington hotel property to the government and received no compensation in connection with it.

PHONE GIRLS TO RETURN TO WORK MONDAY

Operators Will Be Put in Old Positions as Rapidly as Possible; Normal Service in Short Time Is Prediction

President Wilson Sends a Message Assuring Every Worker a Square Deal; Increase in Wages One Demand Granted

Although there is an element among the striking telephone operators that express the belief that they should not return to work until after the referendum vote that was started yesterday has been tallied, the general opinion is that the strike is at an end and that with few exceptions the operators will be at work Monday morning. Those who received today from International President Julia S. O'Connor, in Washington, a message to the effect that unless strikers return to work Monday all the concessions granted by Postmaster Burleson may be withdrawn.

This message and the question of waiting for the result of the referendum vote that was subject of discussion at a meeting tonight in San Francisco. Those in favor of returning to work also will support their stand by citing the fact that President Wilson has sent a message promising fair treatment to the telephone workers.

HERE'S TELEGRAM TO OPERATORS. The telegram to Miss Nellie Johnson, vice-president of the International department from International President O'Connor follows:

"All operators involved in strike against Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company are to return to work in accordance with my positive instructions and my promise given to the wire control board. Was heard on retroactive pay. Am positive of satisfactory result. Also outlined our case on other points and asked board to make recommendations. Pillsbury (Morris D. Pillsbury Jr., vice-president P. T. & T.) representing the company, present, agreed just these demands. One year agreement operators and men secured. Service must be restored without waiting result referendum. Otherwise all concessions secured here become invalid. Wire me at once if this order has been executed."

A similar message from President Johnson, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, was received by International Vice-President L. C. Grasser of Oakland, who was in conference on the new shipyard agreement yesterday when the international order to return to work at 8 a. m. Monday morning arrived.

The order to return to work Monday was received yesterday on the telephone company. The committee reported that Fullerton told them the concessions granted by the government would be in effect only as long as the wires are under federal control, which will be only until the end of this month.

The committee then sent a telegram of protest to J. P. Noonan, president of the international union, and Miss Julia O'Connor, president of the operators' department, asking that a referendum be taken on the order to return to work.

MESSAGE RECEIVED FROM PRESIDENT. President Wilson's message was received simultaneously last evening by Mayor Ralph of San Francisco and Mayor Bartlett of Berkeley.

ANSELL, STORM CENTER IN ARMY, QUILTS SERVICE

BY UNITED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Lieutenant Colonel Samuel T. Ansell, storm-center of the recent fight to change the army court-martial system, today sent his resignation to the war department.

Ansell will continue his campaign against alleged court-martial injustices as a member of a law firm, with offices in Washington and New York.

Ansell asked that his resignation be put through immediately. The resignation itself was one line, saying: "I hereby resign as an officer of the army."

LIFE TITLE FOR PERSHING URGED; MARCH IGNORED. BY UNITED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Wilson is authorized to appoint John J. Pershing a general for life, under a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Britten, Illinois.

The bill made no mention of granting similar rank to Chief of Staff March, as the President requested.

An agreement had been reached, the war said, that the girls should be paid the wage they received when they walked out plus the new rate posted by the company for such positions and should be put in their former positions as soon as possible. They must all register with the company before 8 p. m. Wednesday.

The general strike committee immediately conferred with D. P. Fullerton, superintendent of the telephone company. The committee reported that Fullerton told them the concessions granted by the government would be in effect only as long as the wires are under federal control, which will be only until the end of this month.

The committee then sent a telegram of protest to J. P. Noonan, president of the international union, and Miss Julia O'Connor, president of the operators' department, asking that a referendum be taken on the order to return to work.

Berkeley Lawyer Commits Suicide. Attorney John A. Largent of Berkeley, a corporation lawyer with offices in the Marston Building, 244 Kearny street, San Francisco, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head this morning. Largent was found by L. B. Clark, who had offices in the adjoining suite.

A note containing the following, was found on Largent's desk: "Good old world. I am going home where there will be no sin or sorrow."

Largent leaves a widow and two children, a son 19 and a daughter 21 years old. The family was notified of the death and went to the residence. Financial difficulties are understood to have been worrying Largent. The Largent family came to Berkeley about a year ago, from Southern California. They lived at 2511 Virginia street.

BABY, ROLLED IN MATTRESS, DIES IN VAN

Breath of Life Snuffed Out When Moving Man Fails to See Tiny Month-Old Tot Taking Nap Among Blankets

Mother Pursues the Wagon, Shrieking in Her Chase, but Finds Child Dead When She Tears Open Bedding Bundle

In the folds of a mattress as it was carried in a moving van through East Oakland streets today, Joe Valado slipped away from this life he had known but a month. Mrs. Jos. Valado, discovering when the van had left her house, the mistake by which Joe, asleep in his bed, had been rolled up with the mattress and blankets, stumbled striking into one street and then another, missing the route of the van, trying hysterically to find and overtake it. At last she succeeded. Her eyes dilating with agony, her hands trembling, she struggled at the mattress and snatched it open at last. She seized the body of the babe, but her help had come too late. Within the folds of the blanket, the baby had suffocated and died.

BABY'S NAP-TIME AS MOVING MAN ARRIVES. Mrs. Valado has been living at 1015 Twenty-sixth avenue. Today was moving day. There are several children in the Valado family, but Joe was the newest. It was nap-time for him when the moving man, Joseph Pacheco of 1221 Twenty-third avenue, arrived with his van, and the baby lay asleep on the mattress in his mother's room.

Joe was just a tiny bit of a thing. Comforters and blankets covered most of the bed. In the midst of the move, Pacheco failed to notice the babe. Mrs. Valado was in another room packing up some other furniture. Pacheco seized the mattress at both ends, doubled them upon each other, at a stroke, ran a rope about the bundle, threw it over his shoulder and thrust it into the back of the van. Soon he drove away for the new Valado home.

He had been lost to sight but a few moments when Mrs. Valado went to look for her baby. A moment later she ran shrieking from the house. She stumbled along Twenty-sixth avenue. Neighbors ran by her side trying out of the incoherent cry of the mother to follow the measure of her plight at the corner of East Tenth street she sought in all directions for the van but in vain. Finally at random she started out on the possible directions.

Pacheco ordered it at the right direction, and presently her cries reached Pacheco where, unconscious of the tragedy behind him, he was carrying out his duty. He leaped to the ground and at her bidding dragged the mattress from the van to the roadway. His knife cut the rope that bound it; her fingers clutched at its folds and hurried them apart.

Joe lay there beneath his blanket as, an hour before, she had laid him down and given him that last loving look that only mothers know. But the sleep he was sleeping was not like yesterday's or the other day's. This sleep will not end—not right away.

MALE 'VAMPIRE' FINED $120 AND GIVEN WARNING. Ralph Corzan, referred to by the police as "The Male Vampire," received today a demonstration at the hands of Judge Herbert Wise on the high cost of vampirism.

The judge charged him $120 for it, and told him that if he were ever arrested again it would mean jail.

Curzan, who was inclined yesterday to treat the matter as a joke, today in police court avowed great penitence.

"Well, no decent man would do such a thing as the matter said today. We have laws to protect our women—and so I'll show you about them. A hundred and twenty dollars or sixty days—and whichever it'll be the days and no dollars."

Curzan was arrested on complaint of Miss Isabel Gier, who says he followed her along the street in an auto "vamping" her.

Italian Premier Warns Disturbers. ROME, July 19.—(By the Associated Press).—Instructions concerning public order must be carried out scrupulously and with firmness. "The government will not show indulgence to transgressors and will hold weakness as a guilt," says a circular letter sent by Premier Nitti to all the prefects in the kingdom concerning the general strike which has been called for July 20 and 21.

"The fact that arms and explosives have been seized in some cities and that the prefects in the kingdom are urged to be on their guard against delinquents," the letter says. "Any disorder injures Italy's credit and her starving people. Therefore, liberty and order, which guarantee our life, must be rigidly protected."

Voyage Marks Epoch in American Naval History; Strategic Value of Panama Canal Is to Be Fully Tested on Trip

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va. July 19.—The vanguard of the Pacific fleet sailed from here at 3:30 o'clock this morning bound for the western coast via the Panama canal. No unusual ceremonies marked the departure of the six super-dreadnoughts and thirty destroyers and tenders which are leading the way for the 200 naval craft assigned to Pacific waters.

VOYAGE MARKS EPOCH IN U. S. NAVAL HISTORY. The beginning of the voyage marks an epoch in American naval history. For the first time the fleet has been divided, with exactly half of its power assigned to guard the western seaboard. For the first time also the strategic value of the canal is to be fully tested when Admiral Hugh Rodman moves his armada through to Pacific waters.

Through the night the great fleet lay blinking and winking its countless messages across the silent road. The big, dim battle-craft and the slim destroyers, vague shapes with brilliant eyes of light under a cloud-streaked sky, seemed to be talking among themselves in the dark.

Daybreak brought a colorful sunrise poking long crimson fingers of light past the capes to wake the ships. Under the big, dim battle-craft and the slim destroyers, vague shapes with brilliant eyes of light under a cloud-streaked sky, seemed to be talking among themselves in the dark.

"Fooling" to Be Theme of Four Sermons

Rev. Frank M. Sileley will begin a series of live-wire and helpful sermons at the first Wesleyan church, Sunday evening, The general theme of the series is "The modern society." The summer sermons are always of charm and interest and he has never listened to a sermon so full of life and convincing one as "Modern Fooling," the series follows.

Sunday evening, July 20—"Fooling with Society."

Sunday evening, July 27—"Fooling with Law."

Sunday evening, August 3—"Fooling with Money."

Sunday evening, August 10—"Fooling with the Future."

The Sunday evening sermon on "Fooling with Society" will introduce the series. It is a study of the modern society in the city today, better or worse than before the war, and how to do with it. The society. What is it to fool with wine parties and the like? Is it to be a fool? Did Lot or Belshazzar or David or Cleopatra or Caesar, or any of the ancient fool with society more than the moderns? Is it not part of the

Dr. Silecyl will call the effects of looting by society by examples taken from modern life.

At 8 a special musical program, "A Tale of Two Cities," featuring singing by a star contralto of the North-west, will sing a song which contrasts the city of London with the city of this country. The well-known contralto of this city will also sing a solo.

The service will be given as a sermon and music at Oakland's temple beautiful.

After Dr. Silecyl will take up Dr. Hunter's book, "Why the Church Has Failed." Is the Universalist church still relevant? Is it condemning the church and exalting Bolshevism justified?

Thereafter, there is a congregational song service at 7:30, led by Otis M. Ironmonger.

For further details, address Dr. E. H. Silecyl, 1600 Broadway, New York City.

will preach on the "Prophet's Vision of a Cake Not Turned," showing the kind of cake in modern life that is turned, and what is necessary to make a well baked cake.

The church quartet will give a delightful musical program at the morning service.

All visitors coming to Oakland are invited to attend these services, and are invited to visit the Oakland Church Beautiful.

Captain Jim Scott was the winning pitcher for the Seals yesterday when Charlie Graham's Crackers walloped Seattle 5 to 3, but Jim has no credit coming for the victory outside of what he receives in the official box score. Scott was walloped to all corners of the lot. He had nothing with which to fool the Seattle batters, but his team-mates came to his assistance with three home runs, a flock of singles and things, and when Jim got in a hole his little pals played sensational ball. Scott is far from being the pitcher he once was. He knows all about the gentle art of fooling the batters, but he hasn't the stuff that he once had.

In his last few starts, Jim has been a real "free" pitcher. He has a whole raft of young pitchers in this league who have it on the brain to get a crack at the old pitcher. Captain Jim is not all in as a pitcher, but he has done nothing to boast of since he joined the Seals.

Schorr Deserved

To Win the Game

Young Schorr dealt 'em for the home team and he was wilder than a pair of March hares. Schorr gave three Seals free transportation into the grandstand and walked four of ten later, but he pitched good ball in spots and but for the four-run homer by Pete Compton, the Seals would have been returned the victor. The Seattle boys had the Seals in the hole, 3 to 2, at one stage of the game, but that meant nothing at all to anyone but Wild Bill Clymer. The old pitcher said that the Seals were unimpaired and were going to breeze right into the first division in no time.

Helped Bill from the first base coaching line as his hired men were going all right but before the finish they were gone. Phil Schorr deposited the sphere in the left field bleachers and Red Baldwin made Bill forget about Pete Compton's mighty swing over the right-field wall.

Former Oak Player Gets Three Bingles

Jack Roche, discarded Oak, got three hits off Scott and it need come no surprise that he did. Roche comes out of the Seals with a lot of hits and things right in front of his optics when he came to the plate. He was a regular ball player. Roche was due to his stomach and Jack had this attempted. Now Roche is a regular ball player. Roche was due to his stomach and Jack had this attempted. Now Roche is a regular ball player.

Tagging the Bases

Bill Clymer failed to get any hits yesterday in four trips to the plate, but that did not keep the Seals from winning. Clymer's batting average is .100. He has not hit in four games. The Seals won 5 to 3. Jones pitched good ball for Portland until the fifth inning, when he was relieved by the Seals' pitcher, Scott. The Seals won 5 to 3.

No Chance of Us

GETTIN' HURT.
Seems like you're always gettin' hurt,
Scarred an' bruised from head to toe,
Comin' in all smeared with dirt,
Sobbin' out your tale of woe;
Tried to climb a tree an' fell;
Tried to tight-rope walk a fence,
Shipped, an'—there you needn't tell,
Can guess the consequence.

Never thought your daddy knew Anything of life at all
When he told you not to do
What you did because you'd fall.
Didn't think it could be so,
Did you now, you rogusil elf?
Seems just like you had to go,
There an' learn it for yourself.

Never mind! Come on, don't cry!
Yes, I know, it hurts a lot;
It will heal up by an' by,
An' you'll never see the spot.
Just sit here upon my knee,
Take it easy now an' when
It is bandaged up you'll be Ready to go out again.

Just remember as you go
That your daddy's old an' wise
An' with years has come to know
All the paths where danger lies.
Sometime when he's gone away
Where he cannot hear you call,
You may know his every way
Was to save you from a fall.

Labol Brads.

On account of its strong flavor cauliflower is not nearly as popular a vegetable as it deserves to be. Properly prepared, it has a delicate nut-like flavor that is highly appreciated by epicures, and it is a decidedly nutritious vegetable.

To prepare, remove all of the green leaves and the greater part of the stalk. Put the head down in a pan of cold water which contains to each quart of water one teaspoonful of salt and one teaspoonful of vinegar. Let it soak in this water for one hour or more. This is to draw out any insects that may be concealed in the vegetable.

When ready to cook put it in a large saucepan, stem down, and cover with boiling water. Add one tablespoonful of salt, and cook with the cover of the pan partly off, boiling gently all the time.

A large compact head will require a "half" one-half hour, small heads from 20 to 25 minutes. If the flowers are loose the heat penetrates to all parts quickly. When compact a little extra time should be allowed for the cooking, but the time must never exceed the one-half hour.

Creamed Cauliflower.
1 pint of cooked cauliflower
1 pint of milk
1 teaspoonful of salt
1 tablespoonful of shortening
2 tablespoonsful of flour
1-2 teaspoonful of pepper
3 slices of toasted bread.

Break the cooked cauliflower into pieces and season with half the salt and pepper. Put the shortening in a saucepan on the fire. When hot add the flour and stir until smooth and frothy, then gradually add the milk, stirring all the time. When the sauce boils, add

A department of QUESTION & ANSWER.

Editor The TRIBUNE—Is it necessary to obtain a state license in order to buy and sell real estate? And if so, to whom must the application for such license be made?—L. L. M.

A license law to apply to real estate brokers goes into effect July 26. R. L. Riley has been named real estate commissioner, but he has not opened an office. It is understood that a test case will be made by those opposed to the law. No licenses have been taken out. The law probably would not apply to a person selling or buying real estate for his own account and not doing any commission business.

the salt, pepper and cauliflower. Cook 10 minutes and serve on the slices of toast.

Cauliflower and Tomatoes.
1 cauliflower.
3 tomatoes.
3 tablespoonsful of shortening.
3 cupful of grated cheese.
1 cupful of breadcrumbs.

Cook the cauliflower until tender, then pass it through a coarse sieve with the tomatoes which have been skinned. Add the cheese, melted shortening and seasoning. Stir very lightly and put into a baking dish. Sprinkle with breadcrumbs and bake from 20 minutes to one-half hour.

Cauliflower and Vegetables.
1 cauliflower.
2 tablespoonsful of shortening.
1 tablespoonful of flour.
1 chopped onion.
1 chopped carrot.
1 tablespoonful of chopped celery.
Salt and pepper.

Fry the onion, carrot and celery together in the shortening. When browned shake in the flour, pour on one pint of boiling water, stirring it well all the time, and cook gently for one-half hour. Strain through a fine sieve. Boil the cauliflower separately until well cooked, drain and pour the sauce over it. Put in the oven a few minutes and serve very hot.

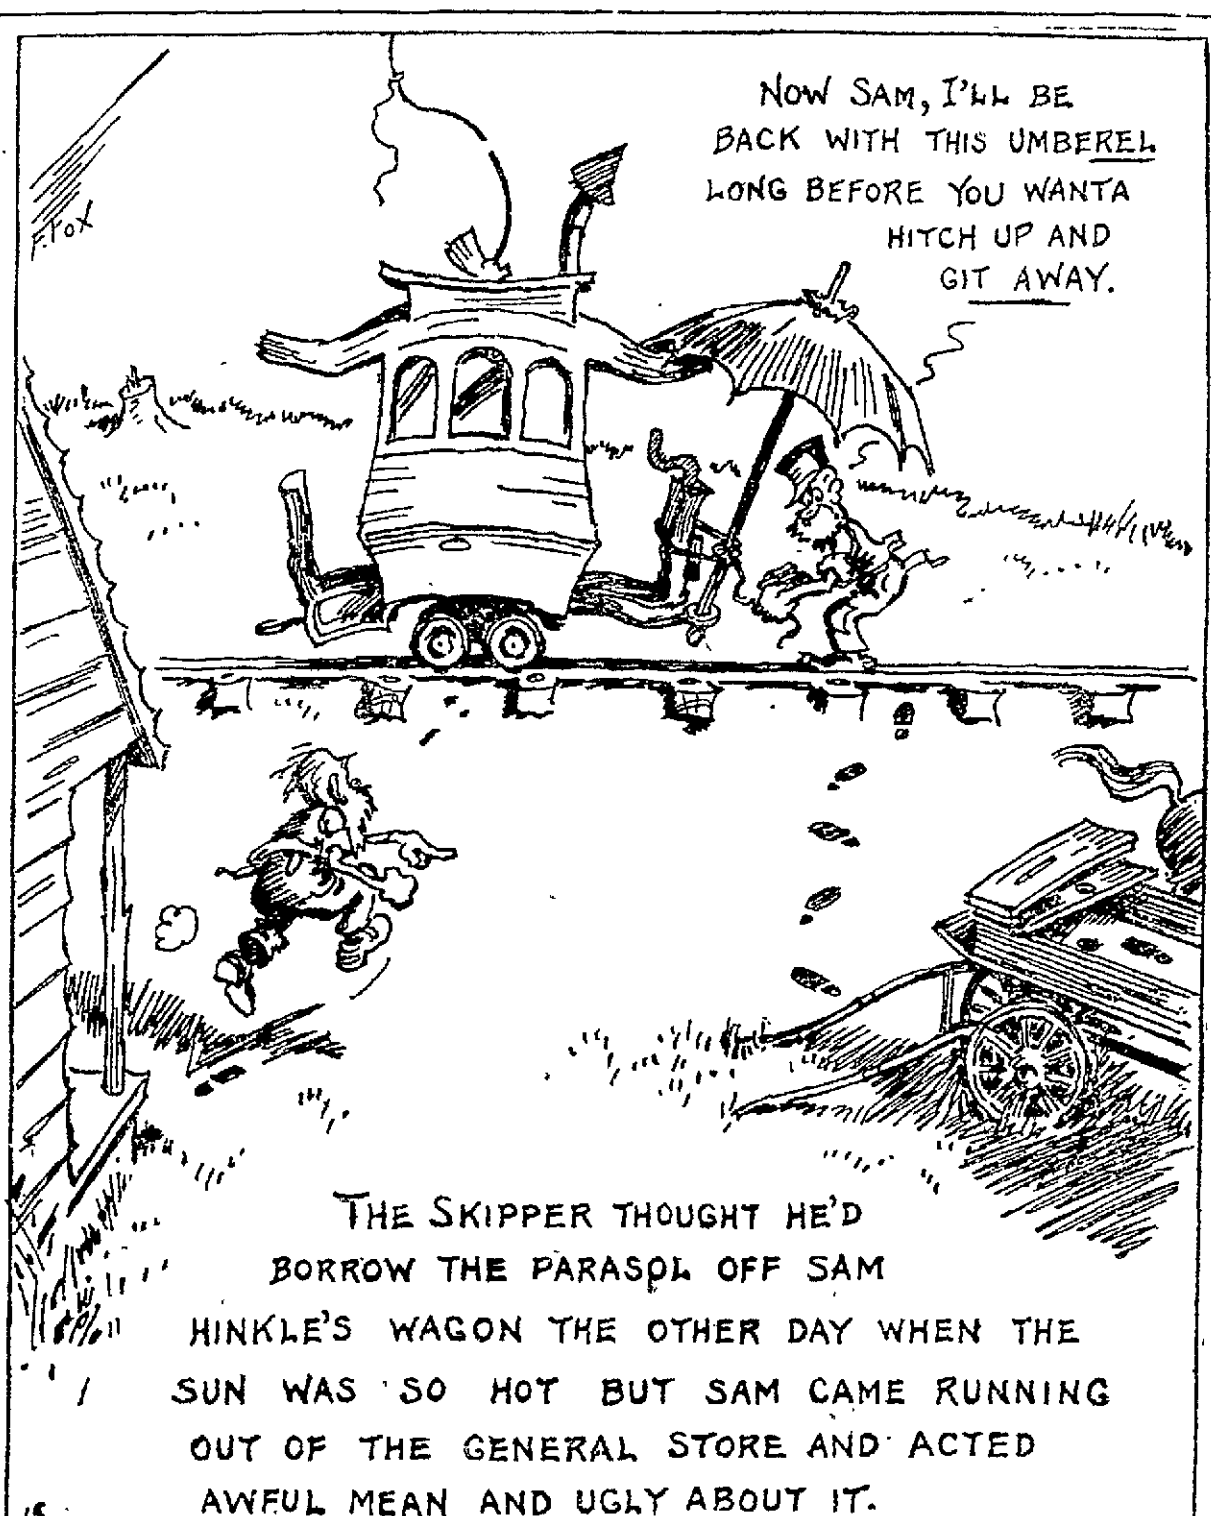

Baked Cauliflower.
1 cauliflower.
1 cupful of breadcrumbs.
2 tablespoonsful of shortening.
3 tablespoonsful of milk.

Boil the cauliflower until it is tender, and cut into pieces. Pack the pieces in a greased pudding dish with the stems downward.

Beat the breadcrumbs into a soft paste with the milk and melted shortening, and season with salt and pepper. Add the egg, well beaten. With this mixture cover the cauliflower. Place in the oven and bake until brown.

GAGS BEDTIME STORY

(By Howard R. Garis.)

Uncle Wiggly Longears, the bunny rabbit gentleman, was riding along through the woods in his automobile one day when, all at once, he saw in front of him on the path two funny little red-spotted Squiggle Bugs.

"Hold on there! Wait a minute!" cried one Squiggle Bug, waving its front left leg at the rabbit.

"Yes, be careful where you are going," said the other Squiggle Bug, waving its front right leg at Mr. Longears.

"Oh, excuse me! I didn't intend to run over you," said the bunny, as he slowed up his machine. "Did you think I would?"

"Oh, no," answered the largest Squiggle Bug. "The reason we called to you to stop is because you were just going to run your auto over a sharp thorn, and if you had done that, your bologna sausage tire would have a hole in it."

"Right you are! Thank you for telling me," said Uncle Wiggly. He was going to get out of his auto to take the sharp thorn away when the smallest Squiggle Bug said:

"Sit still, Uncle Wiggly. My brother and I will pull the thorn to one side for you."

"They did this and the way was clear," Uncle Wiggly was about to drive on when he happened to think that perhaps the bugs were tired of crawling.

"Wouldn't you like a ride in my auto?" asked the bunny rabbit, with a polite twinkle of his pink nose. "I have plenty of room."

"Thank you, a ride would be nice," said the largest Squiggle Bug.

"Are you going any place special?" asked the bunny after a bit, when the bugs had not told him where they wanted to get out.

"No, we have no place to go," said the smaller of the two red-spotted chaps. "We have no home. We are sort of tramps in the bug world."

"Then come home with me," invited the rabbit gentleman. "Nurse Jane, Baby Bunt and I live in a hollow stump bungalow. There is plenty of room for two Squiggle Bugs."

"Oh, thank you, very much!" whispered the bugs. "Now we are like real folks—we have a home."

So Uncle Wiggly took them to his bungalow. Nurse Jane and Baby Bunt welcomed them and made them feel at home, and for a long time the Squiggle Bugs stayed with Uncle Wiggly.

But one day the rabbit gentleman noticed that the two Squiggle Bugs looked unhappy. They didn't eat very much, and they seemed very sad.

"What is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggly. "Are you sorry you came to live with us?"

"Oh, no, indeed!" they answered. "But we would so much like a slide down hill!"

"A slide down hill!" cried Uncle Wiggly. "No one can slide down hill, except in water, and that is a long way off. Besides, you Squiggle Bugs are too small to slide down big hills."

"We know that," said the bug with the most red spots. "All our lives we have wanted to slide down hill, but the hills are always too large, and there is no sliding except in winter when there is snow on the ground, and so we never have any coasting. Isn't it sad, Uncle Wiggly?"

"Yes," said the bunny. "It is. I wish I could find a way for you to slide down a little hill in the summer time."

But Uncle Wiggly couldn't seem to think of a way, and each day the two Squiggle Bugs grew more and more sad. They wanted to go coasting on a little hill in the summer, but there seemed to be no way to do this.

One day, however, after having been out riding in his automobile, Uncle Wiggly came hurrying home.

"Come on, you Squiggle Bugs!" he cried. "I've found a way for you to have a ride down hill, even if it is summer."

"Is the hill the right size?" asked the tiniest Squiggle Bug.

"It's just right!" said Uncle Wiggly.

So the three of them went to the hill. Uncle Wiggly was first, then the largest Squiggle Bug, and the tiniest Squiggle Bug was last.

When the bunny was at the top of the hill, he looked down and saw that the hill was just the right size for him. He slid down the hill and landed safely at the bottom.

"That was just what I needed," said the bunny. "I feel like a new man now. I can smell 'em!"

ODD FACTS

Not taking into account the human beings who are sometimes referred to as warblers, you will find on looking into a bird book that there are many kinds of warblers, ranging alphabetically all the way from bay-breasted warblers to yellow-rumped warblers, say the American Forestry Association, which is conducting the national bird house building contest. If you had a collection of them all together they would take in about all the colors of the rainbow, yellow, orange, chestnut, black, white, green, gray, brown and other colors with numerous shades entering into their beautiful plumage.

Housekeeping in Lithuania leaves "It's an ant hill. I just thought about it as I passed one in my auto. Not far away is a hill in which live a lot of ants. They said you could slide down their hill all you liked."

"Oh, goodie!" cried the big Squiggle Bug. "But what shall we use for sleds, Uncle Wiggly?"

"Some chips from the wood pile," said the bunny, as he gave each bug one.

"But how can we slide down even an ant hill in summer, when there is no snow?" asked the most spotted Squiggle Bug.

"I'll make snow from white talcum powder," said Uncle Wiggly, and he did. He sprinkled a lot of the white powder on the ant hill, making it look just as if it were covered with snow. Then on their wooden chip sleds the Squiggle Bugs slid down, and they had a jolly time, and they thanked the bunny very much.

REVELATIONS of a WIFE

She put my thought into words a moment later.

"I sometimes think I shall not trouble anybody very long," she said slowly, and I cried out in protest.

"Don't, don't say that, mother, please!"

She looked at me searchingly. "It isn't a pleasant thing to say nor yet to hear, I know," she admitted. "And don't get the idea that I'm going to give up, lie down and die, without trying to live. But it has come to me most forcibly in the last two or three days that the possibility of my death is one that I must face. And, while Agatha takes wonderful care of me, I—don't want to die holding HER hand."

It was characteristic of my mother-in-law that she didn't use any of the usual disguising phrases in speaking of her possible death. But I was infinitely relieved at her statement that she would try to live. Knowing her temperament, I was sure that if she, herself, made up her mind that her time had definitely come nothing on earth could save her.

I was at my wife's end, however, as to the best method of handling the almost impossible situation in which her request had placed me. Of course she expected, had a right to expect—I admitted that freely—that I would at once offer to take over her care until she was well. To be sure, there was no possible reason why I should not, Katie is thoroughly competent to manage the household, and also to relieve me of the care of Mother Graham upon the one afternoon a week when I am compelled to be present at the session of the history class of the Lotus Study Club, of which she is the instructor.

"Oh, mother, mother!"

But I saw clearly that I must not assume such a task. I had enlisted for secret service work under Lillian. It meant that I was to be in the line of duty. I had planned to make everything else subordinate to it. The study club would have to wait for sessions before closing for the summer. I meant to offer my resignation, to take effect at that time, so nothing would interfere with my chance for patriotic service.

To think that this wretched, pathetic request of my mother-in-law should have come just at the time when I couldn't grant it! And how in the world could I explain to her the refusal? I meant to offer my resignation, to take effect at that time, so nothing would interfere with my chance for patriotic service.

"You haven't answered me, Margaret!"

My mother-in-law's voice, soft, controlled, yet with an undertone of tenacity that I felt might flame into reproach, in an instant, came to me as if it were afar off. I turned my eyes to her face miserably, shamefacedly, while my wife struggled with words which should cause her least offense.

WITHOUT PROTECTION.

With the lifting of the blockade against Germany on July 11, the problem of promoting and protecting American industries and trade became somewhat more acute. Legislation is still lacking to afford proper safeguards against cheap imports from abroad. It is true that the War Trade Board may assert its authority to regulate imports and exports by the licensing system and under the existing tariff law there is a certain latitude permitted in the imposition of duties which may furnish desired protection in some instances.

But there is no adequate regulatory system of law. Such protection as the American workman and the manufacturer may enjoy is subservient to the whim of executive officials. Again attention is directed to the fact that in a most important relation we have government by men and not government of law.

Resumption of trade relations between the United States and Germany has already started;
the preliminaries of credit arrangements and the allocation of ships is being attended to. The extent to which Germany will seek material in the American markets remains to be ascertained, but according to a despatch from Berlin, she will immediately want footwear and clothing and other necessities. The German government has indicated that it will admit the importation of luxuries and raw materials only in so far as it will be economically advantageous. This is in accordance with the pre-war trade policy of Germany—economic advantage first.

However, there are some raw materials Germany sorely needs at once. Cotton and copper she surely must have before many of her important industries can resume work. She will also need some steel and of course food in large quantities until the harvests of 1920 are gathered.

These exports which Germany must have will run into large sums and naturally she will try to send commodities here to pay for them to the fullest possible extent. (chemicals, dyestuffs and potash is barred for the present. But she no doubt has stored up other products for dumping into any country where admission is possible. These will make their appearance in due time.

When the War Trade Board goes out of existence the United States government will be practically helpless to prevent a flood of cheap manufactures from foreign countries. Japanese imports already have attained large volume. Germany will send her commodities, prepared during the war and in part by the enslaved civilians of Belgium and France, as soon as ships are available.

This is the beginning of the post-war trade era, wherein every nation will strive to recover its former position and to gain mastery of the markets wherever possible. And the United States is unprepared with a constructive and protective tariff schedule. There can be no doubt that the sentiment of the country demands protection for workers and the products of their labor. Congress should at once address itself to the problem of protective legislation.

DECREES OF GUILT.

In some respects the peace treaty is a degree of guilt and penalty that will never lose interest for civilized man. Read Article 217:

"Germany undertakes to furnish the University of Louvain, within three months after a request made by it and transmitted through the intervention of the Reparations Commission, manuscripts, incunabula, printed books, maps and objects of collection corresponding in number and value to those destroyed in the burning by Germany of the Library of Louvain.

"Germany undertakes to deliver to Belgium,
through the Reparations Commission, within six months of the coming into force of the present

treaty, in order to enable Belgium to reconstitute
her two great artistic works:

"(a) The leaves of the triptych of the Mystic Lamb, painted by the Van Eyck brothers, formerly in the Church of St. Bavon at Ghent, now in the Berlin Museum.

"(b) The leaves of the triptych of the Last Supper, painted by Dietrick Bouts, formerly in the Church of St. Peter at Louvain, two of which are now in the Berlin Museum and two in the former Pinakothek at Munich."

Here is a record of the most senseless crime of the Hun—the burning of the incomparable Library of Louvain—and the loot of churches of their fixtures and art objects. Here also a record of confessions of the crimes and of the decree of reparation.

THE ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS.

One of the most unusual enterprises evolved from this country's participation in the war, and one that was peculiarly American, was the publication of Stars and Stripes. The first number was issued February 8, 1918, and the last sixteen months later. It was the official organ of the American Expeditionary Forces, and was printed at Paris, but its circulation was world wide. It was edited and put forth by men regularly enlisted or under pay of the government, which fact diverted its profits from the purpose which it was at first proposed to apply them.

That was the benefit of French war orphans;
but a ruling of the judge advocate was to the effect that the publication being the product of those receiving government pay, the diversion of the profits to other than government purposes would be unlawful. Late in June a force of 145 men and two officers who had been employed on the paper, embarked for home, leaving two or three behind to liquidate some belated accounts.

So successful was the enterprise that some $700,000 were turned in to the national treasury as net profits. This alleged "profit" is enough to make the private newspaper publisher envious, perhaps. The government's advantages were prodigious. It drew all its necessary force for the production of the paper from the ranks of the army at army pay. They were mostly privates, with a few sergeants to maintain the fiction of authority. They were paid from $35 to $70 per month. Their food and quarters were provided by another department of the army, the cost of which was charged to subsistence and supplies of the expeditionary forces.

The distribution of the paper was performed at government expense not debited against the paper. The gross sales of the paper were net income—the "newsboys" and agents being soldiers. Transportation of the paper to the various centers was performed by the government and the soldiers had to pay for their copy whatever the board of control of Stars and Stripes decreed. Again the cost of newsgathering was borne by the government under other heads. Telegraph, telephone and mail service was to be had without cost. The print paper was obtained at preferential rates and delivered, with other essential supplies, without a cost charge on the Stars and Stripes books.

Under such conditions most any intelligent man with average experience ought to make a financial success with a newspaper enterprise.

AFTER ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

Two items of unusual significance are contained in the navy appropriation bill just passed by Congress. One provides for the construction, at an expenditure not to exceed $2,500,000, of two hangars on the middle-Atlantic seaboard to house flying machines of the Zeppelin type. The other appropriates $2,500,000 for the purchase abroad of a Zeppelin type airship and $1,500,000 for the construction of a similar machine in this country.

These would have been strange provisions of government 100 years ago. In May, 1819, it was considered a foolhardy and preposterous thing that the small American steamship Savannah should start from New York for Liverpool under her own steam. Fulton had previously experimented with the Clermont on the placid Hudson river, but that a ship 130 feet long could paddle its way across the Atlantic at the rate of six knots an hour was unthinkable.

But now we are preparing for the "berthing" of airships capable of crossing the ocean at a speed of sixty knots an hour. The hangars which the navy will build will be 800 feet long and 250 feet wide. When completed the rigid dirigibles R-34 may be shoved into one of them and will not have to run the risk of breaking from her anchor and being carried away with the winds.
The "blimps," the filleted dirigibles, that is, with the bones taken out, will also have a haven.

In addition to new adventures and new appropriations, we are also expanding our vocabulary by the addition of a lot of new words invented to describe the new craft and its operation.

Congress having appropriated $20,000,000 for the taking of the 1920 census, the Census Bureau at Washington has begun to augment its force of clerks and enumerators. There will be $5,000 new jobs to award, which is not at all a small advantage to an administration in a presidential year. And with all these jobs dependent upon the continuation of the census-taking the country may again prepare to wait four or five years before it knows the result of decennial enumeration.

NOTES and COMMENT

The I. W. W. are something like the Canada thistle. To appearances the pest may be stamped out of a region, but it springs up again to worry the rural industries. In the Tulare fruit sections floods of circulars have made their appearance, advising sabotage. More drastic action and greater persistence in its application seems to be the only remedy.

There will be some surprise on the part of those who formed an opinion of Henry Ford from his inordinate success as an automobile manufacturer over his expressions on the witness stand. At times he skirts the domain of the frivolous and the "Smoot Alecks."

Hawaii asks statehood. And why not? The islands constitute a populous and prosperous region, whose governmental interests are likely to be better conserved by the more flexible state government than a territorial. Other conditions being favorable, the appeal for statehood is reasonable.

The prune and the pig may almost be said to be traveling hand in hand. In times past they may have been lowly, but one has only to read the market reports to understand that they have emerged as the leading van of food products.

The bill that bars newspaper publications in foreign languages which are given to discussing such things as the United States government, its foreign policies, flag or laws, to the prejudice of the nation's interest, is so reasonable that it ought to pass. The United States has been too easy in such matters.

The loss of the government in its essay in railway management is now set over in the war loss column. It approaches half a billion and is still on its way. It is certainly a calamity, and to have it classified as a war calamity gives it a more definite status.

A despatch from one of the flying field tells of an aviator who was killed flying over the front. The circus stunt in aviation used to cause awe and wonderment, but it no longer does. It is hardly necessary in military training, one would suppose. Yet it seems to be a favorite amusement with those who go up in the air. The layman lays himself open when he criticizes such tactics, but it would seem hardly necessary to grate thus on him.

Trouble in filling the vacancies on the Shipping Board. Opposition to candidates. Why opposition may puzzle the public mind along with the other question, why anybody should want to go on that body just at this juncture, when the probe is being prepared for insertion in it.

It illustrates California's desire for good roads that the returns of the recent bond election show that 194,022 were for them and but 27,992 against. The large number of registered voters who are not recorded took it for granted, perhaps,
that their assistance was not needed.

There is a seeming inconsistency in permitting a prizefight, but prohibiting the display of pictures of
it. The reasoning may be that the experiences are such that few can witness the actual fight, while the multitude may see the pictures. But that doesn't relieve the argument entirely. There would be no pictures if there was no fight.

A news dispatch from Washington relates that a newly discovered and deadly disease may be contracted from too much handling of paper money. Oh, death, where is thy sting?—Bakersfield Californian.

The editor of the Redding Searchlight registers a complaint. "Somebody ought to invent a substitute for the glass bottle. They are so darn heavy to carry around."

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Another large Standard Oil tank steamer came in Monday from Hawaii, containing 8000 tons of cocoa-nut oil. This will be shipped east to Ivory, Ohio, where Ivory soap is made. The cargo is worth more than $1,000,000.—Richmond Terminal.

In spite of automobiles and airships they still, thank goodness,
"dash up the front steps of the capitol building" on horseback in Wyoming. What would our west and our movies of the west be without this dash, this flavor of the picturesque?
When it is a woman who spurs her horse up the steep steps to the very entrance where she is met by the governor so much the better. It was last week in Wyoming. It shows California that we have fallen on sad, stupid days.—Stockton Record.

Byron is trying to interest someone in a hotel proposition. The town is willing to subscribe quite liberally.
There seems to be a good opening for a 30-room hotel with a couple of stores, a barber shop, etc., in the building. The town is also anxious to get a drug store, a vegetable and fruit stand, a shoe repair shop, which would do well coupled with harness work.—Martinez Gazette.

On exhibition at M. K.'s is one of the tallest specimens of silo corn ever produced in this section. With roasting ears at their best, the stalks measure over 20 feet.—Holtville Tribune.

Frank Johnson, the newsboy-poet, who has been a regular visitor for several years, arrived here last week for the season. Frank says that during the past winter he accumulated quite a lot of jokes and poems, which have been arranged to tick the readers of The Catalina Islander. The boy's contributions to the metropolitan papers are usually accepted, and the fact that the editors do not know him, except as an occasional contributor to their columns. He has been crippled for a number of years, and is known to the angling fraternity.—Catalina Islander.

LET'S HOPE HE WILL SUFFER FROM NO SERIOUS COMPLICATIONS OR SET-BACKS

ST. HELENA AND THE KAISER

"St. Helena, the island whose specialty is the entertainment of deposed monarchs, has good economic reasons for its reported desire to have the Kaiser for a prisoner," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society's Washington headquarters.

"Napoleon was its most famous and best paying 'guest,' though not the only one. Dinizulu, a Zulu king, was a more recent exile; sent here after he led a rebellion against the British during the Transvaal in 1889.
While Napoleon was at St. Helena, the Kaiser lived at the expense of the Bonaparte household and the numerous members of the garrison sent to guard him, was reduced to a fine art
by the island citizens.

"In fact it was the high cost of St.
Helena living which created part of the friction between Napoleon and the British governor of the island, Sir Hudson Lowe. Instead of living within the 8,000 pounds sterling allowed for maintenance of Bonaparte and the half hundred members of his entourage the bills for a year mounted to three times that sum. Upon complaint of the governor, which Napoleon resented, the ex-monarch executed a bit of 'play to the gallery' by ordering his silver solid and has had broken up for wood, which,
when reported in England, created so much criticism of the governor, already none too popular, that further demonstrations were not made.

"Napoleon's wants were few. His principal luxury was books; his diversions chess playing and digging in his garden. Like the former Kaiser, he spent many hours with the Bible,
his professed no play, however,
frankly admitting that he was making a study of certain Old Testament books to show that monarchies had divine sanction, and he also spoke of wanting to write a monograph on The Campaigns of Moses.

"Since St. Helena is some 700 miles from the nearest land, Ascension island, and 1,200 miles from the nearest African port, the extreme precautions taken by Lowe to prevent the escape of the man who once had ruled half of Europe, created considerable amusement. Sir Hudson was greatly disturbed one day to find a newly arrived Corsican priest riding horseback in a coat similar to Napoleon's, believing the compatriot involved in a plot to assassinate him. The French commissioner convinced that the sight of a passing dog was enough to induce the governor to plant a new sentinel on the spot; but perhaps the most extreme of the many amusing stories of Lowe's solicitude was the occasion of his protest against Napoleon's planting some white and green beans in this combination of one cone
a suitable allusion to the white flag of the Bourbons and the distinctive green uniform of the general.

"Living almost wholly within two rooms and his garden, Napoleon insisted on all the pomp and ceremony possible in such cramped quarters.
Since his companions necessarily were much in his presence his insistence upon their standing sometimes brought them to the point of faintness. None might speak unless spoken to and all became extremely bored with court life in a shanty involving all the burdens, without any of the splendors, of a palace."

"At first the exile rode horseback, but soon abandoned that rather than have an English guard along. His seclusion is best attested by the fact that for five of his six years' stay he did not exchange a word with the governor; and of the three commissioners—Russian, Austrian and French—sojourning there by the provisions of a treaty to assure themselves of his presence, one saw him through a telescope once, a second looked into his face for the first time when he was to be buried, and the third saw him not at all.

"Napoleon's days at St. Helena were not wholly devoted to killing time. He dictated his voluminous memoirs, and military commentaries, while a number of his associates later added to these diaries, conversations and memoirs of their own, inaccurate

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

What Science Does About
Worms of Diverse Kinds

Johns Hopkins University.
BY DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B., M. A., M. D.

There are pin worms, round worms, tape worms and similar evidences of dirt and of uncooked victuals, but they are much rarer than mothers, aunts, grandmothers and other swift guessers at untruths would have you believe.

Very often, if a child is restless, irritable, squirms and twinges, jerks
and jumps or drops things easily, the mother commonly says to herself or is told by equally enlightened neighbors: "The child has worms." At once, and far from the truth, she follows her erroneous diagnosis with various doses of "worm medicines." If the child was not sick before, it almost certainly is now.

The way the best doctors determine the presence of worms is by no such absurd guesswork. Indeed, you may set it down as a fact derived from the experience of wise physicians that there is only one way to know or to learn of the presence of worms, namely, to see them.

A child or grown-up has no worms unless they can be seen. There are no symptoms of "worms." Restlessness and disturbances blamed on them are generally traceable to St.
Vitus dance, cholera, adenoids, inflammations, jaundice, constipation, need of more sleep, too much meat or something else. Worms have few signs other than their unwelcome appearance.

Worms sometimes find their way into the stomach, lungs, ears, throat, nose and other cavities of children and grown-ups from contaminated food or water or from hands soiled with dirt which contains the eggs. Common house flies pick up the eggs and may redeposit them almost anywhere. Mice, rats and other house animals frequently carry the eggs or embryo of worms around.

The eggs may be very small and migrate to the liver, lungs, spleen and elsewhere. They may leave these quarters and ultimately return to the alimentary tube again to pass out of the intestines as eggs, embryos or adult worms.

Obviously, cereals and many other foods may easily pick up the eggs of round or pin worms. One person in every 200 who does not live a sanitary life and bathe every day has been found to harbor the round worms. The Bureau of Animal Industry in this country, and the English Medical Service, East Indian branch, agree on these facts.

The eggs, when swallowed, soon hatch out, and the embryo worms begin to wander hither and thither for a week or so before they settle down. Then their considerable growth and development prevent much further movement. Man is not a pleasant or hospitable host to worms, so they soon pass out, if perchance they enter the lungs, or children's pneumonia may be set on by them.

The treatment for round worms or ascaris as they are called is the following:

Fluid extract of siphelia or senna in a dose of two to three drams, or oil of chenopodium in a dose of five to 20 drops on sugar. If siphelia is used without the senna it should be followed two to four hours by a dose of castor oil to sweep out the worms.

The treatment of pin worms is a rectal injection of an infusion of quassa to kill them.

For tape worms take one tablespoonful of epsom salts, which should be followed six hours later by a dose of male fern, one dram.

This should be followed six hours later by another dose of the salts.
While using the medicine nothing should be taken except a little thin milk or coffee.

$30,000 ASKED FOR REPORT ON WATER SUPPLY

While Mayor John L. Davis, calling the mayors of Berkeley and Alameda into conference with him, has placed the responsibility of water supply investigations on the engineers of the East Bay Water Commission, the city of Oakland is to be left to devise sources of adequate supply and report back to the three mayors, the Water Commission, which Davis indicated might as well be abolished.

The Water Commission has asked a $30,000 appropriation, to be jointly furnished by the cities of Oakland, Berkeley, and Alameda. The request, made through City Manager Charles Hewes of Alameda, as a member of the joint city council, is addressed to the Oakland city council. It suggests that Oakland pay a pro rata of $15,000, Berkeley, $5,000, and Alameda, $5,000.

DAVID WILL OPPOSE.
Mayor Davis is expected to oppose any such payment. By Oakland Davis, with Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley and Frank Otis of Alameda, held a conference with William C. Creed, head of the East Bay Water company, and urged that the city should develop plans for adequate municipal supply, that the cities should be represented among the directors, and that prompt reports should be made to the city council. "This responsibility on the company," said Davis, "and removes the jobs of the various self-constituted committees and so-called investigating boards who have been busy with the water supply for years."

Hewes in his letter asking for money says that the commission has made a study of all water supplies and has made partial reports. To complete the study, he says, the $30,000 is necessary. Last year the commission, composed of officials of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Richmond, made motor trips to all the water sources reported on: Hotchkiss, Eel River, McCloud River, and Sacramento River.

Hewes says the sum is excessive, as San Francisco paid $100,000 for a preliminary study. "We need no need of expense," Davis, at the meeting with Creed held that as the local water company has turned over its engineering force to the city for this investigation, at no cost he felt that the necessity for other reports being prepared.

The commission is composed of the city engineers of the four cities, the city attorneys and one councilman from each city. Recently Oakland and Berkeley changed city engineers, but both Perry Brown, former Oakland engineer, and C. Kennedy, former Berkeley engineer, have so far continued to serve.

As the commission is headed by H. D. McGlashan, district engineer of the Department of the Interior, whose services have been rendered to the city as an expert, having measured the flow of practically all the larger streams in the western coast states.

BE BLIND, MAN
TRIES TO DIE
Because physicians had told him he would never see again, Fred S. Small, aged 58, attempted to end his suffering by inhaling gas last night at his residence, 956 Seventh street.

In the past week, Small's sight has been failing him steadily and his health served to add to his pain of mind and body.

While Mrs. Small was in San Francisco, the man turned on the gas in the kitchen. He had wrapped his head in a blanket to prevent breathing.

Mrs. Small arrived to find the body still warm and summoned the police ambulance. Officer C. A. Pife promptly removed Small to Emergency hospital, where he was revived.

Small is a locomotive engineer.

AIR TRAFFIC RULES PLANNED SAN FRANCISCO NEWS LIGGETT TO COMMAND IN WEST

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Belief that the bay section will, in the immediate future become a leading center of commercial aviation has led to the adoption of plans for the regulation of planes and enactment of atmospheric traffic laws. Committees have been named, which include the names of aviators, real estate men, city supervisors and business men.

The Air Port Committee, following its first meeting, agreed to name a committee of aviators, legislators and attorneys for purposes of framing a set of aviation rules. It is thought by those in the main committee that very few years separate this region from the reign of aerial commercial aviation hitherto undreamed of. To take care of the thousands of machines that will fly over the bay and city soon rules and regulations are needed, say the committee members.

Supervisor J. C. Kortick, chairman of the main committee, has been chosen to name the members of the aviators and regulations committee. This committee will utilize the British flying laws, now set down in a code of advanced nature. The foreign laws will become a nucleus for a much enlarged code here.

A letter from the second assistant postmaster contained the news that lack of appropriations would prevent the extension of the aerial mail service into San Francisco from its present western terminal, Omaha. A resolution was adopted recommending every effort being made to bring about the extension of the air route at an early date. These efforts will be in the nature of a newspaper, personal and civic body campaign, directed toward Congress, to bring about legislative recognition of this port as a western terminal.

GENERAL LIGGETT NAMED TO COMMAND IN WEST.
Recognizing that the Western Department of the United States army is by far its most important one, those in authority at Washington have named Lieutenant-General Hunter Liggett, A. E. F., veteran, as its commander. His headquarters will be at the Presidio, where Mrs. Liggett has resided ever since her soldier husband left to take command of the 124 division on America's entrance into the world war.

Major General John F. Morrison, present commanding general of the department, will take over the military direction of Camp Lewis, while Major General Johnson, commander of the 1st division overseas and at present in charge of the Washington cantonment, is to be shifted elsewhere.

VON BRINCKEN TO RESIST WIFE'S DIVORCE SUIT.
Declaring his love for the wife who seeks to divorce him, Von Brincken, one-time German consulate secretary here and now serving a term in the McNeil's Island Federal penitentiary for spy activities, believes that she is loyal to him although wrongfully influenced. Von Brincken is prepared to fight the divorce proceedings next Tuesday when they begin before Superior Judge Bernard J. Flood, not only with the usual legal ammunition but also with correspondence between Mrs. Milla Abercrombie von Brincken, beautiful San Francisco woman, and himself.

Attorney Henry M. Owens, von Brincken's lawyer, caused subpoenas to be served on the wife and George A. McGowan, her stepfather. Among the documents are two telegrams from von Brincken to his wife, dated January 16 and 22, this year; one blank sheet of paper signed by the husband, May 1, 1918, and witnessed by Lester Bath, a notary public; another signed blank sheet, witnessed this time by Daniel Griffin; two letters written by

Mrs. von Brincken, August 13, 1918, wherein she complains that she had not received money from the Swiss business as provided for her by the imprisoned husband; another letter from the legation, telling him that the money had been sent to her August 10, 1918, and other correspondence, together with a deed conveying Santa Clara county property to Miss Margaret Abercrombie, sister to Mrs. von Brincken.

Business in December. Von Brincken's term at McNeil's Island ends in December. CLOTHES BEFORE PRINCESS. Clothes come before husbands, according to Princess Della Patra of the Egyptian royalty, who is in San Francisco, according to her own words, to buy $50,000 worth of clothes and take away with her to the land of pyramids, usps and Cleopatra. She must have her clothes first—after that she'll bother a bit looking about for a royal consort.

She was then seen primp up on hearing the news that a princess of the blood is here. The lady calls American business men too cold and calm for her temperament. She wants something more than a human money-making machine. She wants a companion to her warm nature, one who reeks with youth and spiritfulness. The princess is only 22 years old, according to her own testimony.

She escaped the palace of a former khedive of Egypt seven years ago, says the lady. In this way she escaped her life and managed to travel. After a few days in this section the princess will pay Los Angeles a visit.

7000 KOREANS JAILED BY JAPANESE THOOPS. Maintaining that official estimates as to the number of killed, wounded, prisoners and mistreated in Korea are false, Rev. David Lee, general manager of the Korean National Association, today gave the police his list to both the Japanese embassy at Washington and the Federal Council of Churches of Christ. Lee claims that 7000 Koreans were killed in their unsuccessful bid for independence from the Japanese and that 20,000 were wounded. Imprisoned are 30,000 Koreans, claims Lee, while 11,500 were killed in their unsuccessful bid for independence from the Japanese.

A statement from the Japanese embassy, issued April 24, gave the number of killed in the insurrection as 253 and the wounded at 735. The church council issued a list July 15, placing the killed at 361, the wounded at 560 and the imprisoned at 6000.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR WOMAN, 90, ARE HELD.
Funeral services were held today for Mrs. Elvina D. Jackson, 99 years old, who died Thursday after a 66-year residence in this city.

Mrs. Jackson was born in New Hampshire in 1829, coming to San Francisco in 1852. The obsequies were held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Able B. Wilkins, 25 St. Francis boulevard. Besides her daughter, five grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandson survive. She was the widow of Jacob Green Jackson, founder of the Casper Lumber Co. of this city.

GIRLS' DISAPPEARANCE UNSOLVED MYSTERY.
What the disappearance of Miss Frances Ash, local girl, in Honolulu may become an unsolved mystery was indicated today when it became known that her sister, Miss Gertrude Ash, was coming home after fruitless efforts to locate her alive or dead. Miss Ash, as leader in the hunt for her sister, spent twelve days and nights. She is on board a San Francisco-bound steamer, which indicates that no trace had been discovered of her sister. A reward for $250 has been

REAL ESTATE SALES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Improvement in the real estate situation in this city during the last thirty days is reported by dealers, who say that the number of transactions was largely in excess of those for the corresponding period of last year. While but few big transactions are reported, smaller properties are moving steadily, real estate men say. Usually July is a dull month for real estate transactions, but so far this month a record is being established, it is said.

The demand for small homes and bungalows continues active and builders are reported to be making sales as fast as they can build. Builders say that they experience no difficulty in obtaining money to finance home-building operations. Money for all legitimate enterprises is reported more plentiful now than ever before.

Factory building and expansion in Oakland continues, but there is very little construction of business blocks and office buildings. Large property owners in the business sections of the city are said to be marking time with the hope that building materials will decline in price. The United States are to the effect that there is no prospect of an early drop in the price of such supplies.

Local hotels and apartment houses are said to be filled to capacity and the demand for such accommodations is increasing with the big influx of people from other parts of the country. Recently several home-seekers from England and other European countries arrived in Oakland.

Inquiries for factory sites and for opportunity to establish business relations with local firms are being received from many parts of the world almost daily by the Chamber of Commerce and the Alameda County Development Commission.

Police on Trail of 'Gold Tooth' Burglar

A row of brightly gleaming gold teeth is the lone clue to a burglar given to the Oakland police today by E. H. Duly, 1522 Ninth street, who discovered the man in his room late last night.

Awakened by the thief rummaging about in his room, Duly could only discern the gold teeth. Then the burglar fled. Nothing of value was taken.

Information as to the girl who disappeared.

It is thought that Miss Ash, known as Waikiki beach, although some of the Honolulu police believe that she may be wandering in the Oahu hills, suffering from mental aberration. She was formerly a yeomanette in the W. C. C. S. here.

DESPONDENCY LEADS TO ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.
Despondency over the recent death of a daughter is believed to have brought about an attempt at suicide by Mrs. Tomasso Chaves, 3525 Doré street, which failed only because her son, Stephen, entered the home in time. The son came home for his noon-day meal to find the rooms filled with gas fumes. Mrs. Chaves had turned on two burners in the kitchen gas range and was sitting unconscious in a chair near the escaping vapor. Chaves immediately summoned assistance. At the Central Emergency hospital, where the woman was taken, hopes are held for her recovery.

Homemade Brews Not Exempted in Prohibition Law

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Home-made wines and beer, even though intended merely for home consumption, will not be exempted under the prohibition enforcement law. Representative Fitzgerald of Massachusetts this afternoon offered an amendment to the bill seeking exception for "home brew," but Representative Good, who was in the chair, sustained the contention of Representative Blanton of Texas that the amendment was not in order.

LABOR HEADS IN PARIS CALL OFF BIG STRIKE

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

PARIS, July 19.—In view of last night's vote in the Chamber of Deputies the cabinet has decided to demand a vote of confidence by the chamber on Tuesday next. A general debate on the government's policies is considered probable.

Joseph J. B. E. Noulens, former ambassador to Russia, has been selected to succeed Victor Boret, the food minister, whose policy was adversely voted upon by the chamber. It was announced this afternoon that M. Noulens had accepted the portfolio.

It was announced early this morning by the executive committee of the General Federation of Labor that it had been decided to rescind the call for Monday's general strike.

"In view of the vote in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday," the announcement said, "which showed that the chamber at last has heard the voice of the working classes and has condemned the government's economic policies and measures in regard to demobilization, the general strike for Monday will not be called."

Vetoed Bill, Revised, Signed by President

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The $19,000,000 sundry civil appropriation bill, revised by Congress to meet his objections, was signed today by President Wilson.

GIRL ON TRAIL OF HAPPINESS GOES TO JAIL

After spending her girlhood as one of twenty-three children in a poor family—after marrying a husband who deserted her and left her penniless—May Rodriguez, eighteen years old, decided that she was entitled to some happiness in life. And only a few dollars could buy it, she believed. This is why May Rodriguez is in prison. She tried to buy that happiness, the police say, with a check she stole from a fellow worker at the California Cotton Mills. Then, terrified, she fled from the factory, leaving her coat and hat, and from this detectives traced her to her home, 254 Tenth street, where she had hidden in a closet for three days, fearing arrest. Now she is in the women's quarters of the city prison, awaiting trial on a forgery charge, for it is said that she endorsed the check with another girl's name.

A drab life, devoid of all happiness, in surroundings of poverty, is described by the girl in her recital to Inspector L. C. Tobin. Born in San Jose, she was one of a family of twenty-three, her father, a laborer, being able to afford only the most meager of comforts for his brood of children.

"We never had any comforts or advantages; scarcely enough to eat," she said. "Then I got married, but my husband deserted me, and I have never heard from him since. I went to work at the cotton mills, but earned almost nothing. It's not fair that a girl shouldn't have some comfort; some happiness that such a few dollars could buy for her, is it?"

Jailers have considerable sympathy for the girl, whose story has impressed them. But, of course, the law must take its course. She expects nothing else, herself.

"I have five brothers around Oakland," she says. "But I don't expect them to come and help me in any way; in fact I am sure they won't. Well, there are worse places than jail."

Mrs. Rodriguez will come before Police Judge George Samuels for examination next week.

BANDIT WITH REVOLVER HOLDS UP DRUGGIST

With an unmasked man holding a revolver pointed at his head, F. A. Wilson gave up the contents of the cash register of his drug store at 7301 East Fourteenth street late last evening.

Wilson has given the police a good description of the robber. The latter was about 28 years old, Wilson thought. He entered the drug store while only Wilson was there and drew his revolver as Wilson, supposing him a customer, asked his order. He secured $20 and backed out of the drug store with his weapon still covering Wilson.

MAY RODRIGUEZ, whose attempt to take some of the drab from life has caused her to land in the city prison.

SEIZED BOOZE MAY LEAD TO COURT FIGHT

Foreshadowing a court battle over the legality of buying booze before war-time prohibition went into effect and having it delivered and paid for at the present time, ten cases of Sauterne wine were confiscated from a truck of a local grocery firm, and are held today by the property clerk at Central Station, pending a court decision.

The wine, valued at $145, was being delivered to 1531 Eighteenth avenue on instructions from the company, according to the statement of the truck driver, Kingo Cabral, 1259 Dutton avenue. Cabral was stopped at Fifteenth avenue and Tenth street by Patrolman Farrow, who was astonished to see the load of wine proceeding along the street. The delivery tag showed the wine was bought in June.

Difference in Legs, Councilmanic Theme

CHICAGO, July 19.—"What's the difference between the exposure of a man's leg and a woman's leg, anyway?" inquired Alderman Armistead while the Chicago city council was discussing the pressing problem of bathing beach clothes. The council could not see the difference and as a result refused to pass rules requiring women bathers to wear stockings.

RENEW SEARCH FOR BERKELEY MAN, W. P. TODD

BERKELEY, July 19.—Telegrams were sent today to Southern Pacific officials and other persons in the Coachella valley in Southern California in the hope that some trace can be found of William Platt Todd, well known to do real estate broker, of 2527 Hearn street, Berkeley, who has been missing since July 5.

His daughter, Theodosia Todd, returned to her home here today from a vacation and learned of her father's disappearance from Miss B. M. Scott, a friend of the family, who reported the case to the Berkeley police.

Todd went into the Southern California deserts, it is reported, to purchase land for the Southern Pacific. He was to be at Los Angeles July 10, but mail addressed to him there was returned undelivered.

It is the fact of his relatives and friends that the broker, who is 40 years old, fell a victim to the intense heat of the desert region.

Previously, when away, it had been his custom to write home every day, it is said, but no word has been received from him since he left, July 5, for the south.

Woman, Unconscious, Found on Sidewalk

Found lying unconscious on the sidewalk on Twelfth street, between Washington and Clay streets, Mrs. M. P. Hill, 1547 20th street, was taken to the Emergency hospital last night. She was suffering from a scalp wound.

E. R. Liston found the woman and, suspecting her injury was serious, he put in a hurry call. She was able to return home after the wound was stitched.
